

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

April 2

1999

Volunteers needed for Annual Moonbuggy Race

Volunteers are needed for the Sixth Annual Great Moonbuggy Race being held April 17 from 8:30 a.m.-6 p.m. at the U.S. Space & Rocket Center. Volunteers are needed to help with obstacle judging, scorekeeping and reporting, start/finish line activities and pre-race qualifying. Lunch and a T-shirt will be provided. For more information, call Tammy Rowan at 544-8706

Daylight Savings Time begins Sunday: set clocks ahead

Congratulations Teledyne Brown for 1 million no lost time manhours

New policy eases access to U.S. Space & Rocket Center

A new policy provides direct free access to the U.S. Space & Rocket Center for Marshall employees, their spouses and children under 21 still living at home, as well as Marshall retirees and their spouses. The Space & Rocket Center's Human Resources Office is issuing new badges that allow direct free access to the museum, the bus tour of Marshall and IMAX movie presentations during normal operating hours.