

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Monday, June 28

1997

A Quick Look at STS-94

Flight - STS-94

Orbiter - Columbia

Launch - Tuesday, 1:37 p.m. CDT

Landing - Thursday, July 17, 6:13 a.m. CDT

Duration - 15 days, 16 hours, 46 minutes

Orbit - 160 nautical miles, 28.45 degrees

Crew Members -

James D. Halsell, Mission Commander

Susan L. Still, Pilot

Janice E. Voss, Payload Commander

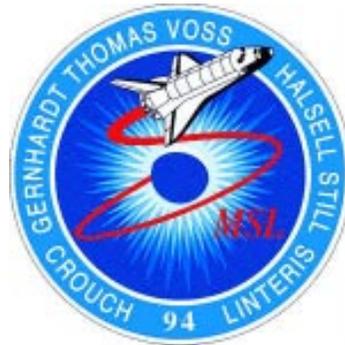

Donald A. Thomas, Mission Specialist

Michael L. Gernhardt, Mission Specialist

Roger Crouch, Payload Specialist

Greg Linteris, Payload Specialist

Highlights - During the Marshall-managed Microgravity Science Laboratory mission, experiments will be conducted in the areas of biotechnology, combustion science, materials science and fluid physics. The mission will also set the stage for the International Space Station, testing experiment facilities and procedures planned for Space Station.

STS-94
Prelaunch News
Conference
To Air at
2 p.m. CDT Mon.
On NASA TV