

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

March 9, 1999

1999 1998

Marshall marks Aerospace Week with school visits

Almost 100 classes of Huntsville-area school children will learn about the space program this week during classroom visits by Marshall Center representatives. To mark Alabama Aerospace Week, March 6-12, the Marshall Center representatives will bring props, models, slide shows and demonstrations to the classroom. They will visit Huntsville City Schools, Madison County Schools and schools in the surrounding counties, speaking to almost 7,500 students.

Flag at half-staff honoring Harry A. Blackmun, retired Supreme Court Associate Justice

AFGE Local 3434 monthly meeting, 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in Bldg.

Safety shoe van here 8 a.m.-2 p.m. Wed., southwest end of Bldg. 4471

Desktop technology on exhibit Tues., Wed. in Bldg. 4203

Marshall Center employees and contractors are invited to an exhibit of desktop technology Tuesday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m., and Wednesday, 8 a.m.-3 p.m., in the lobby of Bldg. 4203. The exhibited technology will be available through the Outsourcing Desktop Initiative (ODIN) for NASA seat hardware.