

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Wednesday, May 28

1997

Werner Dahm to Receive AIAA Aerodynamics Award

Werner K. Dahm, Marshall Center's chief aerodynamicist, has been named recipient of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA) Aerodynamics Award. The award is presented for meritorious achievement in the field of applied aerodynamics. Dahm has worked on the aero- and aerothermodynamic design of the Saturn I block II, Saturn IB, Saturn V and Space Shuttle. His award will be presented June 24 in Atlanta.

New Hours Set for Laundry and Dry Cleaning Service at Marshall

The laundry/dry cleaning and shoe repair drop-off service, located in Bldg. 4200, Room G-37, will change its hours of operation effective Monday. The new hours will be 7:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.