New I Bonds Available Sept. 1; $500 Bond Honors Gen. Marshall

The U.S. Treasury is offering a new type of savings bond — I bonds — designed for investors seeking to protect the purchasing power of their investment along with a guaranteed real rate of return. I bonds, sold at face value, grow in value with inflation-indexed earnings for up to 30 years. Eight prominent Americans are honored on the new I bonds, including Gen. George C. Marshall whose portrait appears on the $500 bond. More information about savings bonds may be found at the following Web site: www.savingsbonds.gov
