NASA Administrator Dan Goldin is scheduled to visit Marshall Friday and brief employees on "New Frontiers in Engineering" from 9:45-11:30 a.m. in Bldg. 4200, Morris Auditorium. The briefing — outlining NASA's strategic vision in each of its four enterprises — will be followed by a question and answer session, and employees are encouraged to attend. The briefing also will air on Centerwide closed-circuit television. Due to the technical requirements of this briefing, hearing-impaired employees should attend the session in a reserved area of Morris Auditorium where an interpreter will be on hand for the presentation.
